Singing is Good For You

0	You seem surprised to hear that I am teaching all my
00 he	pupils how to sing. I am convinced that anyone who he can
1	hear, can sing. and everyone can sing better than they do think
2	they can. Singing can be have a very good effect on our lives
3	and singing from a very early age is the best way for to develop the
4	ear. It is more important to learn to sing than to play one an instrument.
5	What we need to do is how help children to discover the joys

6	of singing. However, many people are discouraged from the
7	singing early in life. It is common to hear adults say they felt
8	terrible when they were not been selected for the school choir.
9	Unfortunately, adults who they have suffered that kind of treatment,
10	do not burst into song spontaneously or sing invented songs
11	to their children. but research shows that the children who most sing
12	happily when they are five, are those whose mothers have sung
13	to them at an early age. May be now you will have be able to
14	understand why I am determined to that my young pupils should sing.
15	And by the way, singing keeps your vocal cords youthful as well!
